21. (Previously Presented) A method of reducing reflected light glare into a human's eyes from the human's cheeks, the method comprising the steps of:

applying underneath the human's eyes, on the human's cheeks, generally covering a location at which incident direct or indirect light is likely to be reflected in the human's eyes, a non-toxic material having a non-reflective colored and finished exterior surface having a wavelength falling outside of the range of wavelengths between 430 nm and 690 nm, and a shape formed within the exterior surface, wherein the shape has a color contrasting to the non-reflective color and is configured to provide communication, and wherein the non-toxic material comprises one of a decal and a temporary tattoo; and removing the non-reflective material within a week after application of the non-reflective material.

22. (Previously Presented) The method according to claim 21, wherein the material is a decal comprising a substrate, having top and bottom faces, the top face of the decal comprising the non-reflective material and the bottom face of the decal having a pressure sensitive adhesive thereon; wherein application of the material comprises applying the bottom face of the decal to the reflective cheek portion and pressing so that the adhesive holds the decal in place.

23. (Previously Presented) The method of claim 21, wherein the non-reflective material has a wavelength falling outside of the range of wavelengths between 430 nm and 690 nm, thereby absorbing a substantial portion of light in the visible spectrum.

removing the non-reflective material within a week after application of the non-reflective material.

32. (Previously Presented) The method according to claim 31, wherein the material is a decal comprising a substrate, having top and bottom faces, the top face of the decal comprising the non-reflective material and the bottom face of the decal having a pressure sensitive adhesive thereon; wherein application of the material comprises applying the bottom face of the decal to the reflective cheek portion and pressing so that the adhesive holds the decal in place.

33. (Previously Presented) The method of claim 31, wherein the non-reflective material has a wavelength falling outside of the range of wavelengths between 430 nm and 690 nm, thereby absorbing a substantial portion of light in the visible spectrum.

34. (Previously Presented) The method of claim 31, wherein the human is a participant in an athletic contest or other event or activity, and wherein application is performed within a few hours or less before the start of the athletic contest or other event or activity, so that the material substantially eliminates reflection of incident direct or indirect light off the participant's cheeks into the participant's eyes and removal is practiced within a few hours or less after the athletic contest or other event or activity is over.
